VIRGINIA LOST TO POTOMACS

Eight-Oared Shells Took Different Routes
Around Schooner.

FLUKE IN THE
SINGLE SCULL

The Gig Race, the Prettiest of All, Won by Virginia's Regular Crew—A Mishap to Both the Virginia and Potomacs Shells.

(Special From a Staff Correspondent.) WEST POINT, VA., August 4.—The regatta here to-day was entirely successful in no far that each race was hotly contested, but the eight-oared shell race between the Virginia Boat Club and the Potomac Club, of Washington, was won by the latter, after the Richmond crew had led most of the way.

The first event was the single scull race of one mile, between Wallace Klare, of the Arundel Boat Club, Baltimore, and Joseph F.
Daly, of the Potomac Club, of Washington. Virginia refused to enter a man in this race, on account of putting him out of the junior class of amateur rowers if he won, who were three had entered.
Unfortunately the referee and the judges had a misunderstanding as to where the finishing line was located, and when the shells had completed the course, the judges were unable to give the decision.
At the half-way point, Daly was one and a half lengths ahead, and led nearly all the way. When another race was demanded, Daly refused to row again. He claimed to have won the race, and said if he rowed at all it would be under protest.

The delay caused considerable discussion. The judges finally agreed upon a plan, and Captain R. M. Thomas, of the Arundel Club, made the following statement:
"That the race should be rowed over again, either at Washington or Baltimore, and if Daly refused this offer the decision would be given to the Virginia crew. The race was the event of the day, being that of the eight-oared shells, between Virginia and the Potomacs; the course covering a mile and a half. Almost at the very start Gordon, of Virginia, broke his seat, and had to row by the best means he could, and yet he led for the better part of the race.
The Potomacs were also slightly handicapped, King bending his oarlock shortly after the start, but he did not have half the trouble that his opponent did. The two shells took different courses around the schooner, Virginia, taking the longer course next to the shore, but escaping the tide, and the Potomacs staying outside. It looked like the race was going to the Richmond crew until within two or three hundred yards of the finish.
Here the Washington boat began creeping up, and soon they were pulling neck and neck. At the very finish the Po-tomacs shot ahead and won by less than a boat's length.

Virginia was greatly handicapped by the rough water, being used to the smooth James, while the Potomacs were in their element.
H. W. Shelton was all in at the finish, being out of condition, as he had but lately substituted Smith at stroke. Coach Russell is confident his crew would have won had conditions been more favorable.
The following were the crews: Virginia Boat Club—1, Edmontoni; 2, Forrest; 3, McAdams; 4, Thomas; 5, Crenshaw; 6, Gordon; 7, Berkley; stroke, H.
W. Shelton, and coxswain, W. P. Shelton.

Potomac Boat Club—1, Edmontoni; 2, Harralson; 3, Schaefer; 4, Kennedy; 5, Kling; 6, Canaleto; 7, Gordun; stroke, Joe Bell, and coxswain, Slocum.

"The Potomac crew had its coach, Mr.
Dempsy, along, who will probably have charge of the Cornell rowers next year.
From the start the two boats' noses ran on a parallel almost all the way, and the rowing of each was beautiful to watch, their oars dipping in perfect unison, and hardly throwing a bit of spray. Almost at the finish the regular crew showed what they could do by pulling suddenly ahead, and winning by a quarter of a length. The cheers were loud and long at this excellent display of oarsmanship.
The winning crew deserve great credit.

Closely-Contested Race.
By far the most interesting and closely contested of the races was the last, being that of the four-oared gigs, both crews being composed of Virginia Club men. One was picked from the best men in the eight-oared shell, and the other was the regular six crew.

LYNCHBURG, VA., August 4.—The Shoemakers beat the Highlanders this afternoon in a double-header, winning the first game by the score of 8 to 1, and the second by a margin of 9 to 2. The story of the game was the cause of an error on both teams. In the first, Stewart, that is, as far as his work was concerned, pitched a no-hit game. Cooper made a double play in the first inning after there had been a chance to retire the side. After that the visitors did not get a semblance of a hit. Cassidy, evidently had a day off, and was landed on so freely in the third inning that he retired in the favor of Davenport, a new pitcher from the South Carolina League, who held the Highlanders, and put an end to the scoring. Davenport looks to be a find. In the second game an error by Lanham at first lost the game to the visitors.

Without the error, the play would have retired the side, leaving Bowen at second. This was followed by a double play by Hoge, and a long single by McVintar, while the Potomacs were in their element.

On 88.

HOTEL LAWRENCE MEDAL
Is Won by the President of Richmond Gun
Club.

Owing to the weather conditions yesterday afternoon, the scores made at the Richmond Gun Club were not up to the standard, yet, under the circumstances, the score of 88 would equal 94 per cent, under ordinary conditions. The dark clouds kept many from locating their targets, and the wind deflected many more.

Mr. T. H. Keller, Jr., of the Peters Cartridge Company, and Mr. W. S. Mac-Lellan tied on 88 out of 100.
Mr. Hechler, the president of the club, won the Hotel Lawrence medal, with a perfect score, handicap allowed. His score of 40 out of 50 was excellent, plainly showing that his new gun fits him and he is shooting the right shell.
The club is making arrangements for a good programme on August 18th, when all the shooters of Richmond will contest for the Hunter Arms Company medal. This event creates no little interest, as the conditions are very novel.
Each shooter is allowed the use of both barrels at the first 50 targets.

Mr. T. Haze Keller, Jr., was a welcome visitor to the club, and, as is his custom, shot well.
The many friends of the popular shooter, Mr. Wiley Lawrence, will be glad of his safe journey home from the annual meeting of the Elks, which commenced last month at Denver.

All the teams that won in the games of the Richmond Amateur Baseball League yesterday did so by rather heavy scores. The C. and O. Offices won from the Locos by a margin of eight runs, the Snowballs from the C. and O. Shops by a margin of six runs, and The Times-Dispatch from the Can Company, and The Chinamen from the Binders by a margin of nine runs, respectively.

The Cans failed to appear in the field against the Ink-slingers, and so forfeited the game; and it was the same case between the Chinamen and the Binders, the latter forfeiting to the former.

As the results show, the Locos are still in the lead, though the Chinamen are giving them a margin of eight runs, the Snowballs from the C. and O. Shops by
a margin of six runs, and The Times-

Richmond and Norfolk broke even yesterday afternoon in a double-header, the visitors taking the first game by the score of five to one, and losing the second by the score of one to nothing.

Long pitched in the first game and lost it; still worked in the second game and won, the solitary tally coming in the eighth inning, when Boyd hit a liner to left and scored Shaffer who was on third. Shaffer had gotten a scratch hit, the decision at first being very close, and had gone to second on Cowan's sacrifice. He took third on Stilla's out from pitcher to first and made the run when Boyd hit the ball for a single.

Two of the five runs made by the Norfolk players in the first game were made when the side could have been retired without them. Twice it happened that the ball was sent from Hinton to second sack to catch a runner stealing, and twice did the runner on the third sack cross the plate. Neither of the runs should have been counted against Long, but they did; just the same, and afterwards it seemed that it was no using. The Norfolk nine had the Lawmakers guessing for the rest of the time, and won the game by the score of 5 to 1.

Pitched Both Games.
Stanley pitched both games, allowing seven hits in the first exhibition and winning it, and permitting but two Richmonders to connect safely in the second game, and losing it by one score.
Nine hits and two runs in eighteen innings is his record, and it is a good one. However, the one on that Richmond made was earned.

Drew, pitcher for Richmond, and Leonard, pitcher for Norfolk, were the umpires. Umpire Nowhouse had been sent to Lynchburg to officiate, and Umpire Black, who was to come here, did not get a telegram from Secretary Gregory in time to make the train. Therefore it was necessary to work in two players, and the men who pitched were chosen to do the duty.

In the ninth inning when two men were out and Setts interfered with Catcher Cowan, the trouble started. And it looked very much like a mob. Not before this season has there been any more excitement and any more disorderly conduct by the people of Richmond who go to see the games. This time it was not the ball players who caused the disorder, but it was the people from the grandstand and the bleachers.

Foster and Stanley had both gone out and Dingle had singled. Setts came to bat and swung viciously at a ball. After swinging he stepped deliberately in the way of Cowan and prevented the throw to second to catch Dingle, who had attempted to steal. The decision of Drew, who at the time was calling the balls and strikes, was uncertain for a time, and Shaffer protested. Drew claimed that the man was out. This retired the side, and made it certain that Richmond had won the game.

Wild Mob on Field.
But just about the time the arguments started between the players on the field, the crowd started from the grandstand and the bleachers, and fully one thousand
